X JET AT APA RATED #3 IN THE AMERICAS IN AVIATION INTERNATIONAL NEWS' ANNUAL SURVEY

Centennial Airport, April 1, 2011 - X Jet is excited to announce it was rated the # 3 FBO in the Americas by Aviation International News' (AIN) 2011 FBO (aviation Fixed Based Operator) Survey. This is the first year XJet has been eligible to enter the survey and this ranking makes XJet the #1 rated FBO in the Western United States.

"Placing number 3 in the Americas, especially since it's our first year in the survey, means the absolute world to everyone at XJet," said XJet Founder & CEO Josh Stewart. "With such a revolutionary business model we have all worked our tails off to always deliver our unique brand of Seven Star Service, and being recognized by AIN proves that the X Jet business model is the future of private aviation."

"The past year has been a tough environment, especially competing with the 'big boys' at Centennial. It is a huge compliment to our team to be recognized for shining so brightly. With growth of over 180% year on year, I am personally so proud of the team for their dedication and passionate commitment to delivering exceptional customer service. To be truthful we've all had a lot of fun, we absolutely love what we do and we are committed to seizing upon the global opportunities that lie ahead."

X Jet opened on the south side of Centennial Airport in July 2007 as a private club for Denver based jet owners and started FBO services in late 2009. "The other FBO's are focused on margins from fuel sales, an already expensive commodity; I like knowing that XJet is focused on what really counts, service," said Founding Member, Alex Cranberg.

The AIN survey covers FBO's in the U.S., Canada, Mexico, South and Central America and the Caribbean and asks pilots, dispatchers and FBO users to rate locations on service, amenities and facilities. "XJet continues to redefine the standard for customer service. Congratulations on being named to the top 3 FBOs in the nation in this year's AIN poll," said Centennial Airport Executive Director, Robert Olslayers. "The sky is no longer the limit."

XJet is committed to establishing European and Middle Eastern hubs with locations in Paris and Abu Dhabi. "X Jet's focus on delivering Seven Star Service and World Class Facilities will establish a new benchmark within the industry" says Ali Al Naqbi, Founder of the Middle Eastern Business Aviation Association (MEBAA) & Vice President, Presidential Flight, Abu Dhabi, UAE. "As soon as I saw X Jet Denver, I knew that this was the future of private aviation and that is why we are bringing X Jet to the United Arab Emirates."

ABOUT XJET

Located on the south side of Centennial Airport (KAPA) X Jet is founded by pilots, owned by pilots and run by pilots. X Jet's KAPA aviation campus includes a lavish terminal, two state of the art climate controlled hangars, auto storage and auto spa facilities, passenger lounge, executive conference room and ultra modern pilot lounge. X Jet has won numerous awards including Robb Report's "Best of the Best," the prestigious ADDY Gold Award for Advertising and Marketing and the American Institute of Architects Award for Outstanding Design. It's not an FBO, it's X Jet.
